

Which Omani micro-module manufacturer is the best

Overview

Italian solar production equipment provider Ecoprogetti has installed a fully automatic solar module production line in Oman. The facility is located in Salalah, the capital city of Oman's southern Dhofar province, and has a nameplate capacity of 400 MW. For an Omani conglomerate, a local manufacturing facility provides a powerful competitive advantage, ensuring your products are not just available but actively preferred for the nation's most significant solar developments. This creates a protected market less susceptible to international price. Julanda Al Balushi, CEO of Sheida Solar, talks to The Energy Year about why Sheida Group entered solar manufacturing, the market's response to the company's commercial launch and how Oman's in-country value (ICV) programme has affected its position. MUSCAT: In a remarkable leap for Oman's semiconductor industry, GS Micro Electronics (GSME) is leading the charge with cutting-edge.
